

The chart below, assembled through 4 decades of putting thousands of parachutes in dozens of different aircraft, is intended to provide general guidance .
There are other important factors to consider when making this choice: height, weight, cockpit space restrictions (e.g. headroom), and the field elevations over which you fly.
Strong has a long history of helping Pilot's achieve a solution that works for them and their aircraft. Call us to discuss your specific needs in more detail.
